OPEN GOLFING AT FOX HILLS.

SMITH LEADS ANDERSON FOR NEW M. G. A. CHAMPIONSHIP.

Travis and Travers Finish All Even-Only American Born Pro. Makes Good Score—Some Remarkable Strokes and Records - Variations in Drivers Shafts.

Two players of national fame led the field for the first thirty-six holes of New York's initial open championship at the Fox Hills Golf Club yesterday, Alex Smith and Will Anderson, the latter now open champion of the United States for the third time. Smith finished with 147 and Anderson 148, and next, a stroke apart, were John Hobens, Stewart Gardener and David Ogilvie, the latter only in the M. G. A. territory since the spring d formerly at the Baltimore Country Club. The leaders of the amateur squad, W. J. Travis and J. D. Travers, chased Ogilvie in and were bracketed with Horace Rawlins, United States champion of 1895, at 154. There were forty-three starters, of whom twenty professionals and eighteen amateurs returned weather suitable for a lawn party. The Fox Hills Golf Club committee men in action were Frank Sears, Frank Barrett, J. J. Worrall and G. R. Kelso, who furnished scorers for the players, and representing the Metropolitan Golf Association were L. H. Graham, the sponsor for the tournament, and Leighton

Anderson led the field in the morning with Anderson led the field in the morning with 72, which included one wonderful hole, the 430 yard eleventh. A driver is usually content to carry the hilltop and play from the plateau with a brassey to the green, which is in the valley beyond and guarded by a ditch. Anderson's drive cleared the hill, a distance of 275 to 300 yards, and playing a midiron from a hanging lie, he was hole high just off the green. To cap the climax, Anderson holed his mashie shot, getting a 3 for the when talking of the longshafted drivers. Smith, who says he has changed to save his strength, used a 51-inch shaft. Anderson had a 49-inch shaft and Gardner, besides using a 48-inch shaft, has lengthened every club in his set four inches. Travis, the first to exploit a 50-inch shaft, used yesterday one of 47 inches. Hobens, Oglivie, Rawlins and Travers had shafts of 44 inches on their drivers, which is the normal length now-sdays.

Travis tied for the same prize for the artermoon, the latter to receive a medal. Summaries:

FANGY KINKS AT HARVARD. Football Men Swing a Hammer-Imported Idea of McMasters's.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 14. -The second day of practise of the Harvard football squad brought a number of new men to the field, called out some [coaches and developed men more effective. Trainer McMasters put four of the 200 pounders at work with a big hammer consisting of a 16-pound iron ball on the end of a three foot iron bar. The men swing this tool against a heavy wooden block, first with one hand and and then with theother. It is newlinstrument in developing football players, nut has been used for years by the catch-as-catch-can wrestlers in Lan-ashire, where McMaster sawit used years ago. ashire, where McMaster saw it used years ago.

Three of the five men who will be the regular coaches were on the field to-day. W. H. Lewis and Bert Waters worked with the line raen and Leo Daly with the quarterbacks and drop kickers. These men along with Bowditch who will look after the ends, and Bob Kernan, who will have charge of the half-backs and kickers, compose fiead Coach Reid's staff of assistants. The head coach himself will look after the fullbacks.

The men had two long sessions to-day, one in the forenoon and one in the afternoon They were on the field for almost two hours each time, but the work was not so strenuous as have been the opening days of other Harvard seasons. Considerable attention was devoted to the kicking department of the game to-day, special coaching being given in punting place kicking and drop kicking.

Among the men who reported to-day was M. Moleod, who will enter the freshman class. But he did not appear to have AUTUMN RESORTS. NEW YORK. Adirondack Mountains. AUTUMN RESORTS. NEW YORK. Adirondack Mountains.
